

STRATEGIC SOURCING

Nuts grow and mature at different times throughout the year.

Since nuts are an agricultural product, they are susceptible to natural occurrences such as droughts or cold weather. Variations in the tonnage of nuts available to harvest have an impact on their price.

We closely monitor the progress of every nut from the time of its gestation to harvest. This helps us plan and procure the best product to process and meet the requirements of our diverse customer base.

It is our commitment to consistently deliver the highest quality products to our customer and consumer base.
